Tim Hawkings retired in 1992, after 28 years with Imperial Oil Limited, as a geologist, Exploration Manager and Government Affairs Manager. He is now President of Henday Communications, a consulting and communications company, specializing in Northern issues. He has carried out extensive research on the Canol Project, and in the summer of 1993, together with three companions, he walked the Trail.

Mr. Hawkings will review the strategic background of the project, the construction of the pipeline and the supporting activities. He will show the buildings and equipment that is left in the Mackenzie Mountains today. The talk will also feature a few minutes of a film produced by the U.S. Army, to publicize the project.
